The Rose Olmsted Advocacy Person of the Year Award will be given out annually beginning in 2015. A select committee will review all applications and the award will be given to a Freeborn County citizen, professional or volunteer whose advocacy for an individual, family or a community exemplifies service to others. The core values of social work will serve as a foundation of the award: service, social justice, dignity and worth of the person, importance of human relationships, integrity and competence.

Use the following space and additional paper, if needed, to describe the person being nominated and the reasons they deserve consideration for this award based on the core values of social work mentioned above. All applications need to be completed by February 1, 2017 and submitted to Freeborn County Administration 411 South Broadway in Albert Lea, MN 56007 or directly to john.kluever@co.freeborn.mn.us. If you have questions contact Freeborn County Administration at 507-377-5116.
